Trails Open

The trails are open for hiking. The snow is melted off most of the lower trails. Some icy patches remain especially in the mornings. Water, wet soil and muddy spots will have developed especially as temperatures rise into the 30's and 40's each day. The upper trails will continue to have some ice and thin crusty snow that should soften in the afternoons.

No tickets are needed and rentals are not available. Micro-spikes are recommended for hiking mostly when temps are below freezing.

Trails closed to horseback riding until mid-May.
